

MAINE JEWISH FILM FESTIVAL GETS RAVES

“It is a privilege and honor for my family and law firm to provide support to the Maine Jewish Film Festival. As an institution, MJFF continues to enrich Jewish life throughout Maine in ways not before imagined. Keep up this wonderful work. Even with all the great success of MJFF, we are sure the best is yet to come.”

Joe and Debbie Bornstein – our extended family here in Southern Maine, and the Law Offices of Joe Bornstein

“We’re very proud of our longstanding sponsorship of the Maine Jewish Film Festival. It’s given us a way to share in the festival’s success bringing the world to Maine and Maine to the world of filmmakers, guests, and attendees that enjoy this extraordinary festival each year.”

Dana Street, Street & Co.

“I’m so grateful to the Maine Jewish Film Festival for recognizing the potential of our film, Imber’s Left Hand. It first screened here and went on to win four Best Film Audience Awards and continues 2+ years later to be screened in festivals around the world. It’s now in distribution. Bravo and thank you MJFF!!”

Richard Kane, Director

“The Maine Jewish Film Festival consistently presents engaging, high quality programs that appeal to a wide audience. The Maine Arts Commission is proud to work with this exciting organization to advance the arts in Maine.”

Julie E. Richard, Executive Director, Maine Arts Commission

“The Maine Jewish Film Festival (MJFF) is one of the premier film festivals in our state. Through a diverse array of independent films, the MJFF provides culturally relevant and historically significant cinema for audiences from across Maine and beyond. The Portland Museum of Art is proud to partner with Maine Jewish Film Festival, promoting new ideas, inviting discussion, and strengthening the cultural economy in Maine.”

Mark H.C. Bessire, Director, Portland Museum of Art
